Thousands in Audience—

President's Inaugural Speech Gives Warning of Great Peril

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, in a solemnly worded inaugural address, today warned that "rarely has this earth known such peril." He dedicated his second term to countering that danger with strength at home and help for all nations struggling to be free.

Eisenhower expressed friendship for the people—but not the government—of Soviet Russia.

Massed thousands, on the steps of the Capitol and standing on the wet grounds in front, listened in hushed silence as the President spoke.

His address followed the public ceremony in which he took the oath of office for a second term, Sunday morning, on the constitutional date for his inauguration, private rites were held in the White House for Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

The skies were overcast today. There were occasional spatters of rain.

But the sun was struggling to come through as the President arrived at the Capitol for the ceremonial swearing-in.

There were thousands in his immediate audience, and his words were broadcast and telecast to the nation. The Voice of America planned broadcasts in many foreign languages.

Huge crowds assembled early around the Capitol and along the traditional highway of processions, Pennsylvania avenue. The President, Nixon, their wives, and congressional leaders, drew thunderous cheers as they drove from the White House.

The Eisenhowers and the Nixons came in separate cars.

The wives sat nearby as the two were sworn in.

Chief Justice Earl Warren administered the oath to Eisenhower after Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) had sworn in Nixon.

Eisenhower was sworn in at 12:23 p.m.

There was a great burst of handclapping, and some cheers.

Eisenhower's inaugural address was couched in almost a religious quality, the language of a man looking beyond the borders of his own country and his own time.

He accused "international communism and the power that it controls" of casting a pall of fear over the world, and setting nation against nation.

The United States, Eisenhower said, seeks peace. "We have been warned, by the power of modern weapons, that peace may be the only climate possible for human life itself."

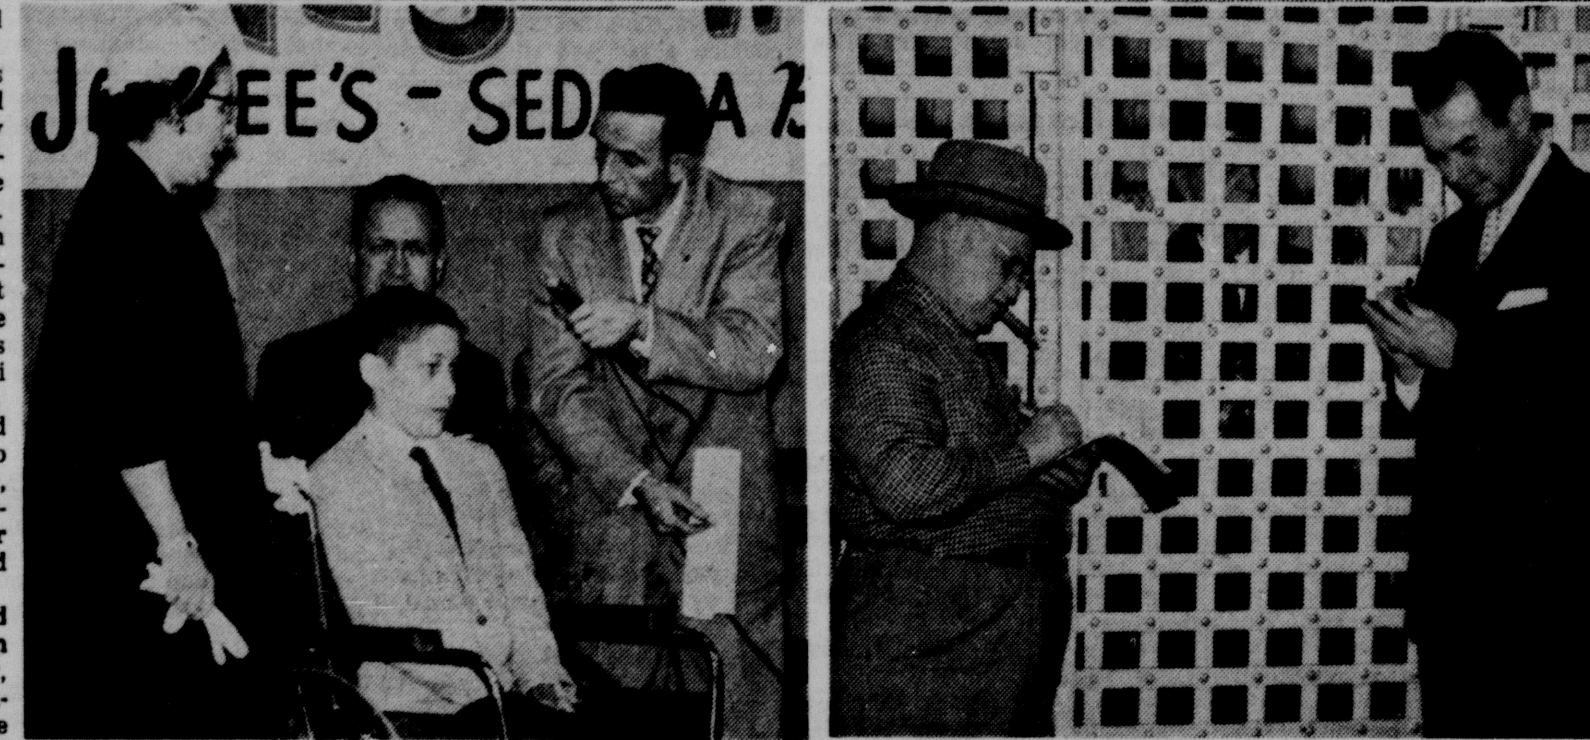

In slow, emphatic cadences, the President told Americans from coast to coast "We live in a land of plenty, but rarely has this earth known such peril as today."

Yet, for all its power and cunning, Eisenhower said: "International communism has itself been shaken by a fierce and mighty force: The readiness of men who love freedom to pledge their lives to that love."

He cited events in Hungary. "Budapest is no longer merely the name of a city; it is a new and shining symbol of man's yearning to be free."

The President's wife, former President Herbert Hoover, and scores of diplomatic representatives from nations around the world, were seated near the white-

Governor and Bride Leave on Honeymoon

NEW YORK (AP) — The Robert B. Meyners fly off to a honeymoon retreat in sunny Barbados today. He is the 48-year-old Democratic governor of New Jersey. She is the former Helen Day Stevenson, 28, daughter of a college president, distant cousin of Adlai Stevenson and a bride of two days.

They were married Saturday in Oberlin, Ohio, where Mrs. Meyner's father, Dr. William Stevenson, is president of Oberlin College.

Warning Is Given On Vote—

Polish Appear to Endorse Communist Regime in Vote

WARSAW (AP) — More than 80 per cent of Poland's 17,449,000 voters appear to have endorsed Wladyslaw Gomulka's Communist leadership in the first popular test of his "communism without tyranny" policy.

Unofficial but reliable reports said more than 11 million of those voting yesterday for a new 459-member Parliament apparently cast the official ballot without change. Gomulka's regime had warned sternly against exercising the modest right to cross names off the Red-dominated single list of candidates.

About 16 million voters — nearly 90 per cent of those qualified — went to the polls. Both the Red hierarchy and the Roman Catholic Church had called for a big turnout.

The Communist-controlled Budapest radio claimed that 80 per cent of the electorate voted the straight ticket.

Truck Licenses Now Past Due

Missouri truck licenses are now past due and owners are being arrested for violations of operating the motor vehicles without proper licenses. The deadline on obtaining renewals for the truck licenses ended at midnight Saturday, Jan. 19, after an extension had been granted by the State Motor Vehicle Department from Jan. 15.

Orders have been issued to the Missouri State Highway Patrol and other law enforcement agencies to arrest any driver operating a truck with delinquent license on them.

The rule also includes the licenses of trailers and motorcycles whose licenses expired as of Jan. 15.

It was estimated a great percentage of truck, trailer and motorcycle owners in Pettis County have still failed to obtain their licenses. If any of these vehicles are seen on the highways without the new license series the operator is to be arrested.

Owners can obtain their new licenses from the Motor Vehicle Dept., at the Askew Motor Co., Fourth and Lamine. W. C. Askew, deputy commissioner, has extra help in the license department handling applications.

More Moisture Seen For State With Turn To Colder Tuesday

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri had some overnight precipitation and more is in sight.

Southeast Missouri had some shower around the half inch mark and there was enough precipitation to settle the dust in some other parts of the state.

The moist air system moved in on strong southerly winds which are expected to continue today.

There will be a few showers in the south and east today, with are expected to continue today.

Three Districts Are Allotted US Funds For New Classrooms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Missouri school districts have been allocated a total of $436,620 in federal funds to help provide classroom facilities in areas where enrollment increases are the result of nearby federal projects.

The highest amount, $220,000, went to Hickman Mills in Jackson County. Neosho District No. 57 in Newton County, received $174,420, and Belton District No. 124, Cass County, $32,400.

Ike Embarks On New Term

High Spot of Occasion Is Oath-Taking Ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower embarked on his second term today cheered by thousands of well-wishers who flocked to this capital for the traditional inauguration ceremonies.

For visiting governors, other dignitaries and just plain people, the high spot of the gala occasion was the oath-taking rite at noon (EST).

But Eisenhower in fact was already well into his second term before he went to the Capitol for the public administration of the oath by Chief Justice Earl Warren in the presence of Congress and the thousands massed in front of the Capitol building.

Eisenhower's first term ended at noon yesterday. And, in a three-minute White House ceremony, attended only by family members he and Vice President Richard Nixon took new oaths of office and began their second terms. Since it was Sunday, the public ceremony was deferred until today.

But despite the purely ceremonial nature, today was still the big day of parades and cheers.

Eisenhower himself began it much as he might any other day. He was up at 7:30 a.m., a little later than usual, breakfasted from a tray in his room, slipped on casual clothes—a gray sports coat and gray trousers—and was at his office and at work by 8:30 a.m.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said that Eisenhower, during two hours at his desk, handled some correspondence and went over his inaugural address. He said Eisenhower made no changes in the text.

Asked how the president was feeling, Hagerty said he was in a jovial, happy mood.

The White House lobby near the President's office was bustling with visitors on hand for the inauguration.

Outside, workmen still were busy putting final touches to the big reviewing stand in front of the White House. The President and Mrs. Eisenhower invited 202 guests to watch the inaugural parade with them from that stand.

Long before the President's arrival, every vantage point about the Capitol was filled.

The waiting crowd was treated to capricious weather that changed almost by the minute.

First, it was overcast. Then the clouds parted and pale winter sunshine broke through. In the midst of the sun, a spatter of rain fell.

The temperature was in the high 30s.

Regardless of the weather, a mighty throng of 750,000 was predicted.

A seat was reserved in the presidential stand for former President Truman, although invited, said he was unable to be present.

The inauguration ceremonies were the focus of a gay, noisy round of celebrations that have been building up for days.

They included the traditional parade, starting at 1:30 p.m., and continuing for at least 2 1/2 hours, probably longer. The President asked that it be kept shorter this year than the 4 1/2-hour march in 1953.

The line of march provided places for 40 governors, 33 floats, 65 bands, a dozen drum and bugle corps, an elephant, and a 408-foot float along the Pennsylvania Avenue route from the Capitol to the White House.

Eisenhower, in the parade's first section, had an elaborate reviewing stand from which to watch and receive the salutes of the marchers.

Delaware, by reason of being the first state in the Union, led the state displays. Others followed in order of their entry into it.

Tonight, starting at 9 o'clock, celebrants dolled up in diamonds and sables, white tie and tails, will gather in four huge ballrooms. The President and his lady, with their son and daughter-in-law, Major John and Barbara Eisenhower, planned to appear at all of them.

This climaxes scores of earlier festivities, vaudeville entertainment, the traditional inaugural symphony concert, and a jam-packed governors' reception for which lines stretched half a block outside the Statler Hotel.

Building Wall Crumbles, No One Injured

A rumbling noise heard about 1:30 a.m. Sunday in East Sedalia was the crumbling wall of the William Hartman Building, 501 East Third. More than half of the east wall of the building collapsed leaving residents on the second floor staring out into open space. No one was injured.

The building, said to be at least 100 years old, had bedrooms and living quarters on the second floor. The section in the center gave way, leaving the living quarters of Mrs. Betty Cougill dangling in the air.

Mrs. Cougill and her two children, Barbara, 14, and Pat, 11, were unable to get out of their apartment when the door jammed. It was pushed open by police officers. She and her daughters were taken to the home of a sister by Hartman.

Living on the same side of the building upstairs was Mrs. Maude Cambridge, who also went to the homes of friends for the night. On the west side of the building, which was not affected immediately by the crash, were George Smith, Art Lewis and George Paulson. The three men also left the building, Smith going to the Salvation Army to spend the night.

Red Cross officials were notified and assistance was given to the victims of the building cave-in. Quarters have been arranged for their residence.

The wall seemed to drop straight down and slightly outward, the bricks falling in a heap beside the structure, leaving more than half of the east side of the building open on both the first and second floors.

Harry Meyer, of the street and alley department of the city, was notified and he had the area around the front of the building barricaded. Other walls appeared to be bulging on the other three sides, which Hartman said had been that way for 20 years.

Hartman Sunday reported he would have the building torn down and he planned on building a one-story concrete block building for his watch and clock repair shop and for his own living quarters at the rear.

Good Legacy

It may be snowing by the time this gets to press, but at the moment that big storm seems to be skirting Sedalia and bequeathing us fair, although windy, weather.

Mostly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; scattered showers tonight and Tuesday with possible thundershowers tonight; continued mild tonight, turning colder Tuesday; low tonight near 50; high Tuesday near 55.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 54; 71 at 1 p.m., and 72 at 2 p.m. Low Sunday night 43.

The temperature one year ago today, high 35, low 10; two years ago, high 39, low 30, with .06 inch of moisture; and three years ago, high 13, low 3.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks 48.6 steady.

Six Miles of Marchers—

Eisenhower's Official Family Is No. 10 in the Parade March

Van Houten.

Carr cut 6,000 persons from the number who participated in the 1953 inaugural, which lasted 4 hours and 39 minutes. He counted on that, plus tighter marshaling from a radio-TV-equipped "command post," to carry out an Eisenhower dictum to shorten things up.

The parade had a theme: "Liberty and strength through consent of the governed." It had a $30,000 theme float 407 feet 8 inches long. That's half again as long as the Capitol is high. Actually, it's 12 floats hooked in tandem and pulled by two Army tractors of the type that hauls the 280mm. atomic cannon. The float depicts industrial production, atoms-for-peace, highways, scientific inquiry and other achievements of democracy's liberty and strength.

Many of the state floats carried out individual phases of that theme.

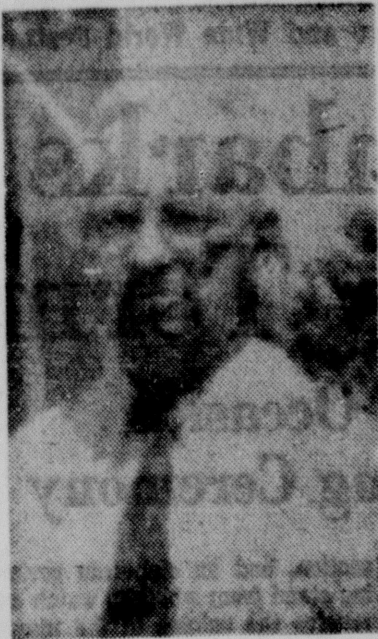

The armed services were showing off their missiles and, mounted on a float, the Air Force's F104A Starfighter jet plane with a speed twice that of sound. The missiles had their teeth pulled. There was no explosive inside.

Following Eisenhower and the armed forces in the line of march came the 48 states and the territories, in the order of their entry into the Union. Most accepted the committee's invitation to send a governor, a float, a band and a marching unit.

'Peanuts for Polio'

The "Peanuts for Polio" campaign, conducted in Sedalia Saturday by students of Smith-Cotton and Sacred Heart High Schools, netted a total of $501.25 for the March of Dimes, according to Scott Weber, Pettis County chairman of the campaign. The students sold bags of peanuts on the downtown street corners.

Senator Studies Drouth Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Symington (D-Mo) is studying a proposed resolution to direct the Agriculture Department to recognize that Missouri is a drought-stricken state, entitled to relief the law provides, in event needed relief is not given.

Aides said he may decide next week whether such a resolution will be introduced.

In a speech to the Senate Thursday, Symington contended that the Agriculture Department as of now, "by administrative action has refused to allow the farmers to participate" in some of the emergency programs it has given other states.

He added that the department has certified 90 out of Missouri's 114 counties as drought-stricken counties.

"Theoretically, therefore, this administration recognizes the existence of a drought in Missouri, but practically does nothing about it."

His remarks came after he said Congress over the years has provided various programs to help farmers suffering from droughts and disasters. These programs, he said, included emergency credit, discounts on federally owned feed grains and federal aid for purchase of hay.

He declared Secretary of Agriculture Benson is not allowing Missouri to receive any "real drought aid, despite the fact that my state is one of the most grievously stricken."

Fires

Fire did approximately $500 damages to the residence and $900 to the contents at 408 South Massachusetts about 4:50 p.m. Sunday. The residence is owned by Fred Kuhlman and was occupied by Sam Sprecher.

Firemen said the fire was believed to have started from a short in the wiring of an electric refrigerator. The flames spread rapidly through the small building, before firemen arrived on the scene.

A booster line was used to combat the flames.

The fire companies were called twice Monday morning to grass fires. The first was at 11:08 a.m. to 1909 South Prospect and the second at 11:36 to 1715 West 11th.

Fire believed to have started from faulty wiring, according to Fire Chief John G. Lucke, caused approximately $300 damage to the Eastview Tavern Service Station building. The fire was discovered about 1:59 p.m. Sunday.

The heavy smoke caused considerable trouble for the firemen until some high windows were opened and a hole chopped in the side of the building on the opposite side.

Booster pumps on the two fire trucks were used to extinguishing the flames.

The property is owned by Mrs. Golda A. Herrick. Insurance was reported carried on the building.

One striped pin was set up in each alley. If, after the first ball, the striped pin was left standing in an alley, the player was required to make a donation to the March of Dimes.

The project was in force Monday through Friday.

Austria Drafts Protest to Reds

VIENNA (AP)—Austria today drafted a strong protest to Hungary about the invasion of Austrian territory by 30 Hungarian soldiers in pursuit of fleeing refugees.

The Interior Ministry said the soldiers, firing machine guns, followed the refugees across the border yesterday. The Austrian Press Agency said they forced about 20 refugees to return to Hungary. They left one wounded Hungarian soldier behind in Austria.

Officials said "the sharpest protest" would be sent to Hungary.

Chancellor Julius Raab rejected Hungary's complaints that Austria was interfering in Hungarian affairs by giving haven to refugees. He said in a nationwide broadcast that if Hungary's Communist regime wants to keep Hungarians at home, they should be given freedom and a decent living.

But the tough measures imposed by Hungarian border guards were from fleeing to Austria. Many sought haven in Yugoslavia instead.

In Belgrade, the Yugoslavs requested urgent assistance from the United Nations to cope with the heavy increase in refugees across the Hungarian border, much of which lies along the Danube River or its tributaries.

Damage resulted to two cars in collision at 19th and Marvin about 2:33 p.m. Sunday. Occupants escaped injury.

A 1950 Pontiac tudor sedan was headed west on 19th and a 1956 Ford sedan was headed south on Marvin when the cars collided.

Trooper Pete Stohr made the investigation.

Ingrid Goes Back Home Tired, Happy

NEW YORK (AP) — A tired but happy Ingrid Bergman returned to Europe today, thrilled about her first visit to America in nearly eight years.

"It was almost like a dream and I'll start to remember it when I get back to Paris," commented the Swedish-born actress as she boarded her plane last night at Idlewild Airport.

"I enjoyed my trip very much although I got very little sleep," she said of her 34-hour visit.

She came here to receive the New York Film Critics Award for best actress of 1956 for her performance in "Anastasia."

During the time that remained, the 42-year-old blonde actress crammed in a matinee performance of the hit Broadway musical "My Fair Lady," did a little shopping and talked to friends.

It was her first visit here since 1949 when she left to make a film in Italy with Roberto Rossellini. She and the Italian film director had a son while she was still married to Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

It touched off a wave of criticism and ended her Hollywood film career. However, she was warmly greeted by well-wishers during her brief weekend visit.

"I was surprised by how nice people were to me everywhere I went," she said. "I want to thank all those kind people who put presents in my car and handed them to me wherever I went."

At the airport, Miss Bergman disclosed that she had talked by telephone with her daughter Pia, a child born of her marriage with Dr. Lindstrom.

"I am very happy about the talk," the actress said. "It was very personal, and should be left to the two of us."

Pia, now called Jenny Ann, is 18 and a student at the University of Colorado at Boulder. She did not come to New York to visit with her mother.

Miss Bergman scotched all rumors that she might return to the United States to live. "Europe is my home now, although I had 10 wonderful years in America," she said.

Establishment of the joint U.S.-Brazilian station has been the subject of long negotiations. The island is on the 40-mile wide, 5,000-mile long guided missile track between Florida and Ascension Island.

Prisoners Exchanged By Israel and Egypt

CAIRO (AP) — The exchange of war prisoners between Egypt and Israel began today with the help of the U. N. Emergency Force.

The operation is expected to take several days.

Two Criminal Lunatics Caught After Escaping

NEWARK, England (AP) — Two escaped criminal lunatics, who terrorized the countryside for two days, were recaptured today as rode into Newark on a stolen motorcycle armed with a sawed-off shotgun.

A policeman spotted the two convicts. Helped by a gathering crowd of spectators, he pushed the men off their machine. They made no attempt to use the shotgun. They were handcuffed and taken to police headquarters.

The convicts, big powerful Frank Ellis and scar-faced Richard Maskill, broke out of the Rampton mental institution late Friday night with keys they had fashioned themselves.

Twice Saturday they broke into houses and held the terror-stricken families prisoner for hours while they helped themselves to food and listened to broadcasts about their escape.

They attacked a man in the first house, hitting him on the head with an iron bar and later breaking three of his fingers. But no one else was touched.

British police had launched one of their largest manhunts in years, but in an area about 15 miles from Newark. Busloads of police swarmed in from other areas to join a posse of constables and tracker dogs in combing the lonely countryside. Spotter planes guided search parties on the ground by radio.

Four Moslem Members Of Baghdad Pact Give Support to Ike Plan

ANKARA (AP) — The four Moslem members of the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact today announced full support of the Eisenhower Doctrine on the Middle East.

Their support of Eisenhower's proposal to check Red aggression had been expected. It contrasted sharply with the opposition voiced by the top leaders of Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia at their meeting in Cairo last weekend.

The four Baghdad Pact members — Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan — signed a communique after a two-day meeting. They also called for the United Nations to monitor Israel-Arab peace and advocated full freedom of navigation through the Suez Canal.

No mention was made of the future role in the alliance of Britain, a charter member of the Baghdad Pact. Britain has attended no meetings of the alliance since the British-French invasion of the Suez because of opposition from Iraq, the only Arab member of the group.

Secretary Tries to Beat UN Deadline

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold worked against a Thursday deadline today to get all Israeli troops back inside their country.

Few if any observers expected him to succeed in getting the Sinai invaders out of two stretches of sandy wasteland—formerly held by Egypt — by the deadline imposed by the General Assembly.

In Jerusalem, it was reported that Israel had framed a new proposal to the Assembly for continued Israeli administration of the disputed Gaza Strip "with over-all relationship to the U.N." The proposal was understood to call for the use of Israeli police to keep order along with local Arab police.

An Israeli government official said Israel might be satisfied with U.N. police force troops occupying the Sharm El Sheikh area overlooking the Gulf of Aqaba provided the U.N. units are given clear instructions to prevent re-summation of an Egyptian blockade of Israeli shipping.

Israel has agreed to pull out by tomorrow from all the territory it seized from Egypt except these two areas. The United States and Britain have suggested that U.N. forces occupy both of them. But the Israelis do not believe the U.N. troops could give sufficient protection against Egypt's using the Gaza Strip as a base for organized fedayeen (commando) raids into Israel.

Egypt has rejected the idea of either area being occupied by anyone but Egyptians. At a weekend meeting in Cairo of the leaders of Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia, the four Arab nations agreed any occupation of any part of Egyptian territory "cannot but be considered a continuation of the Anglo-French-Israeli aggression against Egypt and can only bring about the gravest results."

Swap Is Another Swat Against Polio

Those who listened to "Operation Swap" on KDRO-TV Sunday night were impressed by the abundant energy of the young men and women participants who devoted time and effort to raise funds for the March of Dimes drive against polio.

Auctioning of merchandise donated by Sedalia merchants along with some stunts raised more than $2,400.00. The program was as entertaining as it was practical. The viewer audience was large judging from the night long activity of the battery of young women answering telephones.

"Operation Swap" was exciting enough to keep many from going to bed at their usual hour. We confess to staying with it until 1:05 a.m., although the final signing off did not occur until 4:30 a.m.

What many viewers may not have realized was the enormity of preparations to put on such a show, the planning, the programming, the selection of personnel, arrangements of special props, the physical detail of collection and distribution of merchandise.

Aside from "Operation Swap" aiding the current drive for polio funds under Scott Webber, chairman, attention of Central Missourians was attracted to the clear visual and audio reception of KDRO-TV.

Channel 6 deserves network facilities to serve this area the same as Columbia, Jefferson City and Kansas City. It will be a happy day for Central Missourians when Sedalia gets recognition as an outlet for network programs.

We want to add a verbal posey to the many others which the weary Junior Chamber of Commerce members are receiving today for their activity raising funds for the March of Dimes battle against polio. They and all who assisted them really did a noble job.

These young men and women are not only community leaders of tomorrow but they are leaders today, getting things done through energy and enthusiasm. They meet the challenges every time. Sedalia is proud of this group.

The World Today—

Ike Has Changed During First Term

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The President Eisenhower who moves into his second term today is in some ways not the same man who took office four years ago. He has grown, he has learned, and he understands his country better.

But he still retains a quality which historians may consider his greatest contribution to American life—a quality he originally brought to the presidency. It's his ability to stay calm and convey a sense of confidence.

Four years ago he inherited a nation which was at war in Korea, desperately worried about communism abroad, and so divided over McCarthyism it was almost neurotically suspicious of communism at home.

He got the war ended. It was a far from perfect armistice. But it did get the killing stopped and forestalled the chance of a bigger war.

He remained aloof from personal involvement with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). But his aides—certainly with his knowledge and approval—took a stand against McCarthy and set in motion the Senate scrutiny which drove the Wisconsin Red-hunter into the shadows.

After that the hatred and vilification rampant when Eisenhower took office in 1953 began to disappear. The nation breathed easier.

It was as if under the Eisenhower calmness the mass of Americans regained confidence in themselves to handle domestic communism without fear or hysteria.

As a result of the public disenchantment with McCarthy and his followers, Eisenhower finally dominated the Republican party. Up to then he had seemed to lean over backwards to please the party's reactionary wing. Thereafter he steered a more liberal course.

The Eisenhower who nowadays urges expansion of Social Security, the minimum wage and public aid to education has traveled a long way from the Eisenhower of the late 1940s.

It was in those days that Eisenhower, as president of Columbia University, said that if a person wanted security he could find it in jail. It was a statement which made him appear oblivious of the meaning, and public approval, of the New and Fair Deals under which the government assumed some responsibility for the people's welfare.

The Eisenhower who took office four years ago, after a lifetime in military service, was not a well-informed man on the ramifications of government. This showed up particularly in his answers at his early news conferences when there was no time for his aides to prepare his answers.

It was in those early days and before that he preached against government spending. But for the past three years, when he had to look at the problems involved, the budgets he has offered have been going up, not down.

The Eisenhower of today is well informed, thanks in part to the extremely efficient team of men he brought in to help him.

In these past four years the Communists have gained some ground—they took over half of Indochina—but they lost ground too, especially in Eastern Europe.

where the long-hidden dissatisfaction with the Kremlin burst into view.

Eisenhower can hardly claim credit for the Red reverses. Certainly not directly. The Kremlin's iron grip had begun to slip before Eisenhower took office—as in Yugoslavia—and accelerated after Stalin's death in 1953.

In foreign affairs Eisenhower can be credited with no basically new ideas. He is following the policy of President Truman in containing communism by aid, alliances and military bases overseas.

But in these past four years he has shown himself a master politician in a way unique among politicians: by avoiding personal conflicts, whether as a deliberate policy or a natural attitude. And he has benefited.

A Turn In U.S. Policy—

Reality Of Our Power Bulwark To U.N. Program

by Joseph A. Dear
of Our Washington Bureau

Washington.—American foreign policy is turning away from the U.N. and NATO.

The Eisenhower plan for the Middle East is virtually a declaration of independence from the U.N., on which the Administration appeared to lean so heavily during the closing days of the political campaign. And Secretary of State Dulles, while paying lip service to the importance of NATO, has made it clear U.S. will feel free to act outside its framework.

The administration will make every effort to shore up the NATO alliance and it will back an U.N. police program for the Middle East. But our planners acknowledge that only the reality of our power can bring success to the U.N. program. And they reluctantly admit that Britain, France, and Germany are demoralizing NATO to a degree. So we'll have to search for an alternative.

British maneuvers particularly will be scrutinized. It has been duly noted here that Selwyn Lloyd was retained as Foreign Secretary in the new cabinet. Since he played a part in launching the unsettling attack on Egypt, his retention could be construed as a slap at the U.S.

The theory here is that Lloyd will continue in office as long as Dulles does. Dulles is viewed with deep suspicion by the European allies.

Two recent volumes that deserve attention are "Citadel" by William S. White, and "Who's Behind Our Farm Policy" by Wesley McCune.

"Citadel" is the story of the United States Senate. It is far and away the best book on the Senate that is available. It is both entertaining and educational. Nothing less was to be expected from its author, Bill White, who is surely one of the most perceptive and sensitive reporters in business today.

Wesley McCune's book is a compendium of the organizations and personalities that have an interest in farm policy. Many of them are about as far removed from a farm as it's possible to be. If you want the names of men who farm the farmer's this is the book for you.

If baffling of newsmen assures Senate success then Frank Lausche of Ohio will enjoy a glittering career in Washington.

Lausche had the reputation of being a maverick Democrat before his arrival, and he said something back in Ohio suggesting he might vote for Republican organization of the Senate. So attention was focused on him when he arrived.

One reporter got the impression the new Senate didn't decide how he would vote until he reached the floor on the crucial day. Presidential aide Jack Martin, who once was the late Robert Taft's administrative assistant, told another reporter, hours before the vote, Lausche would vote with the Democrats. Another newsmag got the idea that the Senator had made up his mind the night preceding the vote.

All these conflicting impressions were gained from conversations with the Senator.

Best guess is probably that Lausche would have voted for Republican organization of the Senate if he could have figured any method that would have enabled him to continue his career as a Democrat afterwards.

A YOUNG MAN with a family who is trying to complete his education, works and goes to school several nights a week, finds his hair is getting a little thin.

Here for the Christmas holidays at the home of his mother, the conversation between his mother and his wife was about his hair getting thin. The mother couldn't understand why it would. His father had been up in years when he died and had a wonderful head of hair. There was no baldness on her side of the house except way back to one of her grandfathers.

"Maybe it is because he is studying so hard," said the mother.

The wife agreed and they talked about the possibility.

One of his small sons was taking in the conversation and looked up hopefully: "Maybe when he quits studying so hard," he consoled the two women, "his hair will come back in again."
—H. L.

FOR THE CONVENIENCE of young husbands, some company should come out with a metal container of some kind with "Shampoo" printed in big plain letters so that a bottle of any kind of shampoo could be slipped in it and put in a prominent place in the bathroom. Within a week two young men whose wives work in the same office have had trouble finding the shampoo among the array of bottles on the bathroom shelf.

The first one failed to get any suds from a half a bottle of expensive mouth wash he poured on his head and when he began to fuss about the shampoo his wife went in to find him dripping with mouth wash and smelling that way, too.

A few days later another young man who had been listening to commercials, whether he wanted to or not, kept hearing about the shampoo: "White Rain." So when he went into the bathroom to wash his hair he was certain he was getting the right bottle when he picked up his wife's cologne, "Summer Showers." It didn't make suds either, but he certainly did smell lovely.—H.L.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

Legislation to raise pay for county treasurers and county highway engineers was introduced last week in the Missouri legislature.

Rep. Lee Bachler (D-McDonald County) sponsored a pay raise for county treasurers in third and fourth class counties. His proposal would permit the county treasurer to keep one fourth of one per cent of all county school taxes which he handles. Presently third class county treasurers receive from $1300 to $3500 a year and fourth class county treasurers get from $1200 to $2300 a year depending on the population of the county.

Four senators sponsored a bill to increase the pay of county highway engineers in second, third and fourth class counties.

The proposal, introduced by Senators Harry Hatcher (R-Granby), William Sawyers (D-St. Joseph), Robert Linneman (D-St. Charles) and Jack S. Curtis (R-Springfield) would boost pay for second class county highway engineers from $4000 to $5450 a year. Under the bill, third and fourth class county highway engineers would receive $4200 and $3000 a year respectively. Presently third class county engineers receive $8 for each day actually served.

Sutton said he had been requested to introduce the bill by Monroe county citizens.

Rep. William Zimmerman, Warrenton Republican, reports that the Missouri Broadcasters Association has abandoned plans to introduce legislation to permit radio and television stations to accept legal advertising.

Zimmerman, a radio station owner, said the bill would have permitted radio and television stations to make legal publication of city, county, state and court records through broadcasting. It was believed that feelers for the proposal received a cool reception among house members.

Guest Editorial—

ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) TIMES: The Field Of Leadership. If Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt had given no other service of lasting value, she would have earned the gratitude of the nation for establishing the place of a woman in public life.

For the 11th year in a row, the Gallup Poll has shown the former First Lady is still first in esteem of the American public. This poll, free from the influence of commercial elements and special-interest fan clubs, offers the most reliable list of "most admired" individuals published each year.

When Mrs. Roosevelt and the late President moved in to the White House, women in public life were so exceptional they attracted unusual attention—not always favorable. Her own activities, concentrated in recent years in the United Nations, have caused public office for women to gain greater acceptance, with resulting increase in the number of women in public life.

Illustrative of this is the fact that the list of 10 most esteemed included five who in one way or another have participated in public leadership outside the entertainment field. They are Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, Miss Helen Keller and Mme. Chiang Kai-shek. Others mentioned included such public figures as Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Mrs. Perle Mesta, Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith and Mme. Vijaya Pandit.

The field of leadership for women has broadened immeasurably.

The Doughty Warrior

Sir Winston Churchill's 82nd birthday milestone was a reminder this year of how much his towering figure is missed on the world scene in these critical times.

Looking particularly at Britain's internal stresses and strains, and at the puzzling ups and downs of British policy in Egypt, one can't help wondering whether the doughty Sir Winston might not have managed his country's affairs with steadier and more brilliant resolve.

The history of World War II shows, of course, that Churchill was not always right, that he was often overruled in Allied councils. But he always had positive ideas about what was to be done, and did not fear to execute them with great dispatch if given the chance.

Unhappily he no longer has the physical stamina or the consistent power of mental concentration to attack today's crucial problems. Consequently he evidently cannot serve even as an elder adviser to his harassed successor, Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden.

In the light of Sir Winston's great performance when at the height of his powers, we can only say that this is a deep loss both for Britain and for all free peoples. All could benefit mightily from his firm, enlightened guidance at this moment in history.

Mistaken Notion

That the O' before Irish names stands for "of" is a common but mistaken notion. Properly, the O' is the Irish word "o" which means "descendant." Thus, O'Neill means "son of Neill."

Thinks Ike Likes Alcorn As GOP Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—A high administration official predicted today President Eisenhower will tip the scales for H. Meade Alcorn Jr. of Connecticut as new Republican national chairman.

If he wishes, Eisenhower can virtually dictate the choice of a chairman. If he does not, a bitter fight could break out for the post being vacated Feb. 1 by Leonard W. Hall.

An eight-member group headed by Harry Darby, Kansas national committeeman, will call on Eisenhower tomorrow to get his ideas about a new chairman.

Hall named the Darby group at a meeting of the party's national committee here Saturday. The committee will meet in open session tomorrow to get Darby's report on the conversations with Eisenhower before electing a new chairman.

An administration official said there is no doubt in his mind Eisenhower favors Alcorn.

Alcorn, who directed arrangements for last year's national convention, was one of six men Hall said had been mentioned as possible successors.

They included Darby; Ray C. Bliss, Ohio state chairman; Ted Dalton, Virginia national committeeman; former Gov. Howard Pyle of Arizona, now a presidential assistant; and Louis Nunn of Lexington, Ky., 1956 state campaign manager.

If Alcorn is chosen, he is expected to pledge active cooperation with Republican members of Congress for a drive to overturn Democratic control of both houses in next year's election.

Hall said in his final report to the national committee that the failure of Republicans to win back Congress despite Eisenhower's landslide "disproved the coalition theory."

He said that although the GOP had "cracked the formerly impregnable Democratic strongholds in the South and the big cities" it didn't have enough candidates for Congress who could win on their own merits.

Hall's indication he regards the South as a fertile field for Republican efforts found some grudging Democratic agreement.

Veteran Hunters Say Lions Are in Hills South of Los Angeles

ROLLING HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A veteran hunter and trapper says he is convinced "there's a pair of lions" in the Palos Verdes hills, just south of Los Angeles.

David R. Benson's hunt said that fresh tracks discovered Saturday indicated that a male and female mountain lion are prowling the Palos Verdes Peninsula.

Last week workers and residents reported seeing large animals and one man, an experienced hunter, identified a beast he had sighted as a five-foot-long mountain lion.

Navy to Take Charge Of Forces in Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon announced today that U. S. Navy headquarters in London will take over direct command of American naval forces in Germany, effective June 30.

The announcement said the organizational change "does not involve the movement of any forces."

At the same time, the Defense Department said the Navy's advance base at Bremerhaven is being transferred gradually to the West German navy "on planned schedule."

In addition to the Bremerhaven base, the Navy command in Germany has included the U. S. Rhine River patrol.

The Mature Parent—When Bedtime Means Fear, Reassurance Is Healer

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

While Karen put her crayons away in preparation for bed, her baby sitter Edna glanced through a new picture magazine.

Turning a page, Edna said, "Isn't this something? Look at this knockout necklace they've found buried with these old Egyptian mummies." And she showed four-year-old Karen the vividly colored photographs of ornaments, painted coffins and swathed figures with monstrous heads.

Later, Karen couldn't sleep. She tried to remember that Daddy was with Mummy and could be trusted not to let anyone put her into a painted coffin. Nobody, she told herself, would treat her Mummy like an Egyptian one, stuffing her into horrid bandages along with her pearl beads and new earrings.

But her mother's absence remained full of menace for her. She stayed awake until her parents got home when she burst into tears, crying out, "Mummy, come here! Oh, please come here..."

The next night she was again overwhelmed with fear that her mother's absence might mean disappearance into a painted coffin.

The moment her mother left her to go downstairs, it began to threaten her.

After five minutes, she couldn't stand it; and began to make the demands that would force her mother to bring back her reassuring presence. She wanted more water. She wanted her blanket tucked better. What was the dark thing outside her window? But of her fear, she did not speak at all.

So her mother couldn't explain that Egyptian mummies were not mothers at all, but ancient kings and queens. Not knowing why Karen feared her absence, she could not deal with her little girl's terror of losing her into a painted coffin. But she could register the fact that somehow her absence had become terrifying to Karen — and undertake to restore its innocence and familiarity.

So what she did was to lie down beside Karen and tell her the story of her evening's plans. She said, "When I go downstairs, I'll turn on the lamp beside my chair. I'll sit down, open my sewing basket and take out that blue skirt of yours,

Little Cindy Loses Battle Against Burns

CHICAGO (AP)—Plucky Cindy Evans has lost her two-month battle against burns which seared about 70 per cent of her small body.

The 3-year-old Decatur, Ill., girl died last night in her sleep in Children's Memorial Hospital. She was scorched from her neck to her knees when her dress caught fire while she was playing near a stove in her home Nov. 27.

On Dec. 28 doctors performed a delicate skin graft. They said the 4 1/2-hour operation was her only hope for life.

The skin was from another 3-year-old, Gilbert Case III of Chicago. The little boy was killed in an auto crash during the Christmas holiday and his parents offered the skin to the girl.

"I'll pray it will help," said Mrs. Genevieve Case.

Physicians said the boy's skin could not replace the dead tissue but would help prevent infection and loss of body fluid until Cindy's own skin began to grow. Only skin from an identical twin will grow on another person's body. Skin from a person not a twin will soon slough off, doctors said.

A week later doctors transplanted skin from unburned portions of Cindy's lower legs to her forearms and lower chest.

The operations were termed successful. Although Cindy remained on the critical list she apparently was responding to treatment.

In the last few days, however, doctors expressed "increased concern" for her recovery.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, have five other children and are expecting another child in May. They had left the hospital a few hours before Cindy died.

I'm making longer for you. How cozy and safe I'll be! As I thread my needle, Daddy will say "Listen to this, honey"—and begin to read to me from his newspaper. . . .

Like Karen, small children are often unable to tell us what's happened to make our good night suddenly frightening. If we remember that their fear of absence is their fear of abandonment by us, we can begin the work of comfort. We can begin to make our absence harmless and trustworthy again by deserving our reasoning evening activities.

Scores Stand By To Give Blood For 8-Year-Old

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—A score of folks with rare blood stood by ready to give a complete new blood supply to 8-year-old Sarita Ann Boswell today during delicate heart surgery.

Doctors planned to halt her heart for about four minutes during an operation to remove a growth from the heart and then seal off two heart chambers.

Only fresh blood can be used during the operation. Newspaper, radio and television appeals for donors went out all over North Carolina when it was found that the bright-eyed girl has the comparatively rare type O-Rh negative blood, ruling out the use of plasma and liquid blood from blood banks.

Hospital corridors outside the Duke Hospital blood bank were crowded yesterday with volunteers. Several donors were picked from these and in addition 14 persons from Rocky Mount, N. C., Sarita Ann's home, were here to give blood.

Eight women stood by at Rocky Mount ready to come here to give their blood if needed.

Albert Taylor, her stepfather, said while her heart stops, an artificial heart-lung will be used to pump blood into her body.

Sarita Ann underwent an operation in February of 1954 to remove the obstruction but it was not possible to complete the operation then without endangering her life.

On the eve of the operation, she played with a doll she brought here from her home, not knowing of the wide response to help her.

Snow and Rain Fall Over Much of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Large helpings of snow and rain fell over much of the country today with expected blizzard conditions across the northern and central plains and increased temperatures in the Atlantic Coast states as features of a generally unpleasant weather picture.

Heavy snows and hazardous blizzard conditions were in prospect over most of the north and central plains states from a storm moving eastward out of the rocky mountains.

The belt of snow extended from the Northwest along the Canadian border to the western Great Lakes. Accumulations of from 1 to 4 inches were common from eastern Washington into the Dakotas. Two deaths have been attributed to the storm.

Occasional rain fell over a wide area from the Mississippi River to the Atlantic Coast with rain or snow in the works for New England by tonight.

The greatest warming up took place in Pennsylvania and New York. Albany, N.Y., saw the mercury climb to 35 as compared with 1 below 24 hours previously.

How to meet his future needs... now!

Just now, you may be confident that you will have the money for the education of your children. But who can prophesy what your situation will be in the 1970's? The answer is: You do not have to be a prophet.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has a new, flexible plan which can help you guarantee your children's future. It is called the Education-Estate Builder, and if you have young children, it can help to solve many of your future financial problems. The Education-Estate Builder works this way:

You take out insurance on the life of your son or daughter which provides, say, $1,000 a year for each of the four years of college. Then, when your child is ready for college, the money for college will be ready, too!

On the other hand, if the money is not needed for college or some other purpose, then each $1,000 of the Education insurance will become $5,000 of Limited Payment Life insurance for the same premium. The Life insurance then starts out with a cash value equal to the Educational Fund.

The Life insurance will become paid up in a limited number of years, the exact period varying according to your children's ages when the policy was taken out and when it becomes Limited Payment Life. If the decision is made to continue the insurance, no evidence of insurability as to physical condition or occupation will be required.

Under this plan, a $4,000 Educational Fund may thus become a $20,000 life insurance estate. Think how you would have liked such a nest egg at the beginning of your career!

This is a completely new Educational Plan which gives greater flexibility in planning your children's future than ever before. It can help to guarantee funds for education, or establish a sizable Life insurance estate at an early age when cost is low.

Your Metropolitan Representative will be glad to show you how this plan can be adapted to your particular needs. He will welcome the opportunity to prove that...

Ed Furgol Wins Caliente Open Golf Tourney

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—Ed Furgol, the courageous professional with the withered left arm, won an exciting sudden death playoff and $2,000 top money yesterday in the Caliente Open Golf Tournament.

The former United States Open titleholder, one of the most liked players in the game but plain murder in a head-to-head struggle, dusted off big Al Besselink, 33-year-old Furgol, from St. Andrews, Ill., shooting a steady par 4 and Besselink a bogey 5 on the second extra hole.

For the last seven holes of the regulation 72-hole distance Furgol and Besselink battled on even terms, and they ended tied at 280, eight under par for the Tijuana Country Club's par-72 test.

Furgol, Canada's Stan Leonard and young Paul Harney of Bolton, Mass., started out in front by one stroke over Eric Brown of Scotland and Besselink, who plays out of Grossinger, N.Y.

Mike Souchak charged up to tie Leonard a stroke behind Ed and Besselink; Harney took a 75 to tie for sixth at 284 with Jay Hebert, Jack Burke Jr. and Dow Finsterwald. Brown disappeared into the 287 group with a 77.

Besselink settled for $1,500 and Souchak, the winner here a year ago, and Leonard for $1,100 apiece.

Only Undeclared Team in Top 20—
North Carolina Finds Own Place In Sun; Shadows Fade

The Associated Press
North Carolina, which spent the first half of the basketball season in the very large shadows of Wilt the Silt Chamberlain and his Kansas cronies, has found its own place in the sun.

Kansas, all but awarded the national championship before the season even started, has been stopped. So has Wilt the Silt.

As of today, only midyear exams have stopped Frank McGuire's Tar Heels. Their record stands at 15-0—the only undefeated team in the Associated Press top 20—and it is becoming more and more apparent that finishing the season with an unblemished record is not beyond

Leading Boat Racer Will Reduce Activity After Florida Trip

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—Power boat racing is taking up a little too much of Henry Lauterbach's business time. "I have to cut down on it," the leading U.S. power boat driver said today.

Lauterbach, 38, who won the national championship in the 266-cubic-inch hydroplane class last September, says he's going to stop driving boats as an active campaigner after a trip to Florida next month. "After that," he said, "I'll drive only occasionally."

In New York Saturday, he was awarded the coveted Gold Cup and elected to the Marine Racing Hall of Fame for the second time on record in three hydroplane classes. The Gold Cup is given each year to the nation's leading power boat driver.

Lauterbach, also named to the Hall of Fame in 1954, won 24 of the 32 heats he entered last year. Among his victories were the Governor's Cup Race in Nassau, Bahamas, last month; the International Grand Prix at the Miami Orange Bowl Regatta; and the national title in the 266-cubic-inch class at New Martinsville, W.Va.

His business is boat building. He's busy and that's much of the reason for his decision to cut down on racing, a hobby. He admits too that his family would be happier if he stopped.

The first American Hockey League shutout of the current season occurred in the 31st game. Then there were four in the next eight games.

Machen Faces Joey Maxim Friday Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Unbeaten Eddie Machen, winner of 19 straight, faces Joey Maxim, who is making a comeback at the age of 34, in a Friday heavy-weight bout at Miami Beach.

If Machen recalls the "Maxim phase" of the career of Bobo Olson, his former stablemate, he will approach the match with caution. Olson beat Maxim and bounced into a match with Archie Moore. He never was the same after Archie got through with him.

Maxim weighed 194 for a September match at Vancouver, where he won a decision over Edgardo Romero. He had been out of action over a year since losing to Willie Pastrano at New Orleans June 28, 1955. However, in well over 100 fights, he has been stopped only once, by Curt Sheppard in 1943.

In Machen's last appearance he won a decision over Johnny Summerlin at Syracuse. Rated No. 3 by the National Boxing Assn. and No. 5 by Ring, Machen may move into a match with Pastrano if he wins convincingly.

The 10-round match will be carried on NBC radio and television.

Carlos Ortiz, another unbeaten youngster with a 19-fight winning streak in the lightweight class, goes after No. 20 Wednesday at Chicago Stadium against Bobby Rogers of Chicago.

Angelo De Fendis, who flashed across the screen briefly Christmas Eve with a first-round knockout over Ernie Durando, is back at St. Nick's again tonight against Jerry Luedes. The Brooklyn slugger has won 17 of 19 pro starts while Luedes, a rugged New Haven, Conn., mauler, has a 21-41 record for 26 starts.

Du Mont will telecast to some sections.

Fayette Man Is Best Of Missouri Bowmen In Hunt at Windsor

WINDSOR, Mo. (AP)—C. F. Carroll of Fayette was top scorer among the 75 Missouri bow hunters who killed 246 bunnies during a two day hunt near here Saturday and Sunday. Carroll bagged 16.

The bow and arrow sportsmen came from 12 Missouri archery clubs, including those at Sedalia, Kansas City, St. Louis, Moberly, Springfield, Cape Girardeau and St. Joseph.

Paul Jeffries of Moberly and Jack Compton of St. Louis tied for second by killing 12 rabbits each.

Hugh Collins of Sedalia, in his 70s, was the oldest archery enthusiast among the hunters. He failed to score although he stayed with the group both days.

Clemson holds a 26-10 football edge over Furman. Four games ended in ties.

Macklin Field, home of Michigan State football games, will seat 76,000 fans for 1957.

3 Major Teams Are Involved In Big Player Deal

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Phils have their heads together for what could result in a massive deal involving nine players, it was learned today.

Should the trade go through, southpaw pitcher Harvey Haddix of Philadelphia would return to the St. Louis Cardinals and Phil centerfielder Richie Ashburn would go to the Chicago Cubs.

In return, Philadelphia would get second baseman Gene Baker and first baseman Dee Fondy from the Cubs and rookie infielder Eddie Kasko, outfielder Whitey Lockman, pitcher Don Liddle and outfielder-infielder Chuck Harmon or outfielder Bobby Del Greco from St. Louis.

The Cardinals also would receive utility outfielder Jim King from the Cubs by way of Philadelphia.

Frank Lane, general manager of the Cardinals, apparently has no qualms about bringing back Haddix who Lane traded off last year in a deal which brought pitchers Murry Dickson and Herm Wehner to St. Louis.

Roy Hamey, general manager of the Phils, reportedly is holding up the deal. But how long Hamey can hold out is doubtful. The Phils are desperately in need of help around first and second base.

Chicago Team Holds Slim Lead in Bowling Championship Match

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Falstaffs completed their home half of the national team match bowling championship with a slim 136 pin lead over the St. Louis Budweisers yesterday.

After 12 games of the 24-game, home-and-home series which will be completed at St. Louis next weekend, the Falstaffs had a total of 12,037 pins to 11,901 for St. Louis.

Patty Berg of Chicago was third with 305 and got $528. Next came Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex., with 306 and $440 of the purse. Marilyn Smith of Wichita, Kan. finished with a 308 and $364. Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., and Kathy Cornelius of Lake Worth, Fla., tied with 309s. Each got $290.50.

Speedup Rules Are Approved By Class A

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Earlier starting times, the 20-second rule for pitchers and optional dragging of the infield were approved by the Class A Texas Baseball League directors yesterday in an effort to speed up the game.

Houston, Fort Worth, Austin and Oklahoma City agreed to try starting their single weekday games at 7:45 p.m. rather than eight. Shreveport, Tulsa, San Antonio and Dallas started the practice last year.

Houston will start doubleheaders at 6:30 p.m. rather than 7 p.m.

League directors voted to make dragging on the infield at the end of the fifth inning optional rather than mandatory.

President Dick Butler said his umpires would be instructed to start enforcing the new national 20-second rule for pitchers in spring training.

Jack Fiser of Shreveport, representing the Texas Baseball League Writers Assn., also made a plea for getting games over earlier to help newspapers in problems growing out of games which approach and pass midnight.

Fiser also said the association will name its player of the year, rookie of the year and pitcher of the year after the end of the regular season, rather than in late summer.

Directors voted the Austin club permanent membership after a year as a temporary replacement for the old Beaumont franchise. They also made protective headgear for batters mandatory.

Graylie Howlett of Tulsa succeeded Bonneau Peters in the honorary position of vice president of the league.

Hubbard Will Play Warsaw on Tuesday

Hubbard High School basketball teams will play Warsaw Tuesday night at the home court. The "B" game will begin at 7:30 p.m. These two schools played each other earlier in the year with Warsaw winning both games.

Hubbard School will have another home game Friday night at which time they will meet LaMonte.

Eight times during 1956 the Milwaukee Braves drew more than 40,000 fans to County Stadium, Milwaukee. Labor Day's crowd was 47,604 for a twin bill with Cincinnati.

Reviews Year Ahead in Farm, Public Affairs at County-Wide Meeting Here

Agricultural Economist Declares Demand for Farm Products Rises

By OPAL O'BRIANT
Clarence Klinger, agricultural economist, University of Missouri, reviewed the 1957 farm outlook and public affairs at a county-wide meeting held at the Public Library in Sedalia Monday, Jan. 14. Klinger illustrated his talk with the use of colored slides showing charts and graphs of various phases of income and expenses trends compared over the past ten and sometimes 20 and 30 years. At the beginning of the meeting he asked everyone present to write a question on a piece of paper pertaining to public affairs. After discussing the slides he read the question. A large per cent of the questions had been answered during his discussion.

In his discussion, Klinger explained the outlook for 1957 on demand for products will increase as the consumers are expected to spend more, the government will spend more for schools, roads, etc. and industry will spend more. It is expected there will be more spent in 1957 for farm products than ever before in history. Of the disposable income after taxes are paid 27 per cent of the income will be spent for food, 30 per cent for other goods, 30 per cent for services, such as baked goods, barber and beauty shop services, and 6 or 8 per cent for savings. The farm population is down and the total farm income is declining.

Farmers are actually using less land for crops. It costs more to farm mechanically.

Since 1947 the change in production is as follows: meat animals up 5 per cent, poultry and eggs up 33 per cent, dairy up 11 per cent, feed grains up 8 per cent, hay and forage up 14 per cent, food grains down 20 per cent, vegetables up 3 per cent, cotton down 15 per cent, and soybeans up 55 per cent.

Due to the present methods of operation and mechanical devices we do not require as much energy foods. Farmers are using less horses, man hours and crop land but are using more fertilizers, purchased feed, tractors, and trucks.

The number of milk cows is down but there is more milk production. This trend is expected to continue.

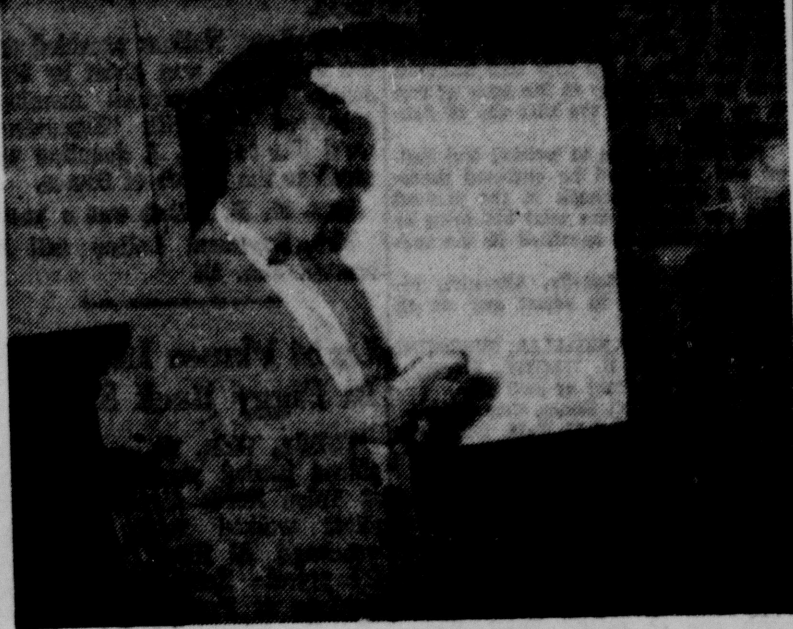

The number of beef cows is up. There will be about the same number of pigs in 1957 with about 1/2 as many sheep. Labor to care for sheep is hard to find. There is less demand for mutton. Wool is imported into the United States because there isn't enough produced to supply the demand.

The production of broilers is going up with prices expected to be better. The turkey numbers will remain about the same. Egg prices will continue to be low.

Missouri farm families should be able to enjoy at least as good levels of living in 1957 as they had in 1956. Both the per capita farm income and prices of things farm families buy are expected to rise slightly in 1957.

Individual farm families may be able to increase their incomes by more efficient farm management or employment off the farm. Careful planning for use of all resources will enable many families to have more of the goods and services that represent better living.

Farm families are depending more on purchased food though a substantial proportion of their food is still home produced. They are spending more money for food, more meals are away from home and more prepared and partially prepared foods are being used. Farm families who need to cut expenses would probably do well to make better selections in their purchased food, to buy less of the more expensive kinds of food and continue as they have in producing milk, poultry, meat, vegetables and fruits for family use.

Sorghum Drying Meeting
Many folks are talking grain sorghums this year and with that there is always the threat of not getting them dry enough for storage. We expect to talk about varieties and data of maturity at the Sorghum and Crops conference Feb. 16. The ones on test at the University last year ranged from July 21 to Aug. 3 in blooming dates.

In the meantime some thought needs to be given to drying if necessary. A meeting to discuss that possibility will be held in the courthouse at 1:30 this Tuesday, Jan. 22. C. E. Stevens Jr., extension agricultural engineer from the University will be here for that meeting. It will be in the circuit court room if the assembly room is still being remodeled.

Weigh-a-Day-a-Month

Plans are completed for the new dairy cow production testing program called weigh-a-day-a-month (WADAM). It will be presented this Tuesday evening, Jan. 22. The meeting will be in the circuit court room and will start at 7:30 p.m.

The County Dairy Committee has set a minimum of 10 herds to start. If those are obtained Tuesday evening the supplies can be obtained in time for the Feb. 15 weighing. Those participating will need a herd book that costs $1 plus a scale if they don't have one that costs about $5.

Membership fees are very low with the charge for the whole year being 60 cents per cow and with a minimum on small herds of $3. Membership fees and book costs are payable in advance.

Poultry Meeting

The County Poultry Committee met at the extension office last Friday night to make plans for the year. Those plans call for quarterly meetings with the first one to be Tuesday evening, Jan. 29.

The place of that meeting has not yet been set but it will be some place where doughnuts and coffee can be served during the discussion period. The meeting will be open to the public and a cup will be passed at the end to pay for the refreshments.

The speaker will be Paul Pippet who has a large poultry operation over in Cass County. Lloyd Lewellen is making arrangements for the speaker and he told the committee Friday night that Mr. Pippet had about 1,500 birds in production.

The special topic of the meeting will be chick brooding but questions on all phases of quality egg production will probably be brought up.

Demonstrations
C. M. Christy, extension soils specialist, was in the extension office Friday assisting in planning some fertilizer demonstrations for 1957. Plans were made for oats, corn, grain sorghums and legumes.

With oats the plan calls for the check strip with no treatment, just a starter of 100 pounds, sufficient treatment for 60 bushels and doubling the nitrogen used for the 60 bushels. With red and sweet clover, we will try the clovers by themselves with adequate lime and phosphate and potash and then a comparison between starter nitrogen and using one-half as much as 80 bushels of corn.

Corn plots will include check, starter, adequate potash and phosphate plus nitrogen for 60 bushels and the same except with nitrogen for 80 or 100 bushels. Sorghum plots will include check, starter, fertilizer for a 50 bushel crop and adequate potash and phosphate and double the nitrogen.

Petitions Approved
The brucellosis petitions were delivered to County Clerk Jim Green last Tuesday by W. P. Nicholson who is the chairman of the county brucellosis committee. It was the official duty of Mr. Green to certify to the state veterinarian's office that the petitions con-

Local Dealers Attend—
Specialist Discusses Tests on Limestone

By Lloyd Lewellen
Wednesday night fertilizer and lime dealers from Pettis County attended a district meeting at Warrensburg, Mo. and O. Lime and Rock Phosphate Co. attended with 11 representatives. Fowler's Service Store with three, Farm Bureau Service Store with one, LaMonte Elevator with one, one fertilizer company representative and the three county agents enjoyed a good chicken dinner before hearing the speaker of the evening.

Marshall Christy, extension soil specialist from the University of Missouri college of agriculture, was the featured speaker of the evening. He discussed in detail the results of some limestone studies conducted in 20 Missouri counties this past summer. In each of these counties 12-15 local leaders were schooled on how to take tissue tests of growing plants and take soil samples at 1, 3, 5, and 7 inch depths. The result reported was an average of these different depths. Fifty representative farms in each county were visited by these local leaders to take soil samples and make tissue tests.

Missouri reached its peak in tons of limestone spread in 1946. Each year since, farmers have failed to apply as much limestone as crops removed. The occasional occurrence of negative results when high fertilization was practiced, especially when a large application of nitrogen fertilizer was made, was a factor in establishing the need for this limestone study.

A summary of the study given by Marshall revealed that in most cases the lime was concentrated in the soil at the 3-5 inch area. It should be evenly distributed in the top seven inches for best plant utilization. Eighty-two per cent of the cropland checked by these local leaders had been limed previously. Forty-six per cent of this amount was in the need of lime again. When the comparison was made for the need of liming between land that had been limed once and land that had been limed twice, it was found that 51 per cent of the cropland that had been limed only once needed lime now while the cropland that had been limed twice showed only 40 per cent in need of liming now.

Percent Calcium	Pounds of Limestone Needed
100	2000
95	2105
90	2222
85	2353
80	2500
75	2667
70	2850

The other factor that determines the amount of exchangeable calcium in limestone is the fineness of grind. The desired fineness is when 50 per cent of the ground limestone will pass through a 40-mesh screen. The following table illustrates the amount of limestone needed to provide 400 pounds of exchangeable calcium as the fineness varies, based on the amount passing through a 40-mesh screen.

Fineness	Pounds Needed
50 per cent	2000
40 per cent	2500
30 per cent	3000
20 per cent	3500

Ground limestone furnished two plant nutrients; calcite limestone supplies calcium and dolomitic limestone supplies magnesium. Most ground limestone contains some of each which can be determined by a chemical test. To apply calcium and magnesium according to a soil test recommendation it is important to know the chemical composition of the ground limestone to be spread. Generally speaking, lime that is high in magnesium has less calcium. Likewise, lime that has been over-limed with calcitic lime will show a magnesium deficiency.

Five Guiding Points—Safety Conditions in Farm Shop Should Be Improved

By Sam McKibben
MU Agricultural Engineer

The farm shop should be high on the list of places in which to improve safety conditions. Measures that make a farm shop safer are the same ones that will improve efficiency and make the shop a more valuable tool for the farmer.

Most farm shops could be improved by putting into effect the following five points.

1. Clean up the Shop — Prompt removal of scrap and unused parts or materials helps keep work areas open, resulting in greater safety, better work, and a saving in time. Such a clean-up may remove a serious fire hazard which alone will more than justify the effort required.
2. Fix up Suitable Tool Storage— Nothing else will compare with good tool storage to encourage proper tool care or do more to keep them in good condition. Most accidents occur with misused or poorly cared for tools.
3. Fit up Tools — The safest tool to use is a sharp or properly fitted tool. Again, not only safety is improved by well fitted tools but labor is saved and better work results.
4. Light up Work Areas—Safety is enhanced by good light. All work areas should have extra light in addition to the regular room lights.
5. Read up on Proper Usage of Tools — One who plays golf may spend hours just analyzing and improving his form in striking the golf ball. Good work with tools is just as dependent upon good form. A little time spent checking what constitutes good form using various tools may show you why you have never been satisfied with the results you get with some particular tool. Tools are designed to be held in a particular manner and to move or stroke in a particular manner. Misuse may often result in personal injury as well as poor work and dissatisfaction.

You can see the same measures that reduce the hazards to safe work in the shop also reduce labor, improve quality of work, and greatly increase satisfaction resulting from working in the shop.

Second Annual Pettis Livestock Banquet To Be Held Wednesday

Pettis County's second annual livestock Banquet will be held at the Broadway Presbyterian church at 7 p.m. on Wednesday evening, Jan. 23. These meetings are planned to stimulate interest in livestock production in the County.

They are open to both rural and urban folks and to both men and women. They are sponsored by the Farm Bureau livestock committee and E. M. (Smoky) Woods of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation will be the speaker the 23rd.

Tickets cost $1.50 each and can be obtained at the Farm Bureau office or from the following members of the County livestock committee: Cloyd Lettwith, Walter Nicholson, John Sneed Jr., E. M. Green, Joe Bill Reid, Chester Wissman, C. E. Ferguson, Pierre Lamy, John Wagenknecht, J. F. Blackburn, Paul Stephens and Tom Ream.

We had an answer Saturday from Dr. Paul Spencer, assistant state veterinarian, saying that our petitions were satisfactory and did meet specifications.

Dr. Mathewson, who took the place of Dr. Strieber as federal district supervisor, was in the office Friday discussing further plans.

The next step, he said, would be a "kick off" meeting of veterinarians. We hope to have it around the first of February. At this meeting all the practicing veterinarians will be invited in to a 7 o'clock session with the state and federal men.

Then at 8 o'clock the petition carriers will be asked to meet with the veterinarians and make plans for lining up the cattle. At least one area will be assigned to each practicing veterinarian at this time. As that one is cleaned up, others will be assigned. Dr. Mathewson was optimistic that the bulk of the testing could be completed before spring work.

Releases New Christmas Tree Production Film

A new color movie on Christmas tree production has been released by the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. The 21-minute film answers many questions about Christmas tree production, including the opportunity Missouri farmers have for supplying local markets.

The film tells the story of one man's efforts to return abandoned and eroded acres to usefulness through the planting of Christmas trees. Problems encountered in the planting and cultivation are shown along with suggested solutions. Also shown are proper methods of pruning which are important for growth of quality trees that bring both cash and prestige to the grower.

This movie entitled "Cash and Conservation With Christmas Trees" tells of the research carried on by the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. These experimental results show which species of trees are best suited for Missouri soils and climate. This film can be obtained for showing through your county extension office, or by writing to the Agricultural Editor's Office, 131 Mumford Hall, Columbia.

Latest Dairy Trends Bring Survey Need

You may want to take a close look at your dairy operations during the coming year. S. F. Whitted, University of Missouri agricultural economist, says present trends in dairy production make this close study particularly necessary at this time. New techniques in dairy production usually require additional heavy capital investments.

Here are some of the ideas that Whitted says you should consider when making this study of your dairy operation: personal preferences, cost of modernizing the present operation, prospective returns from dairying, possible alternate farm enterprises and length of time you intend to remain on the farm.

Whitted says a dairyman with an operation no more profitable than the average needs to either discontinue dairying or take steps to increase his present income.

Looking ahead, the economist believes, it's likely that the milk-feed price relationship will be at least equal to the long-term average. The price relationship between dairy and hogs or beef has also been more favorable than average during the last two years. The dairyman can expect the same or slightly higher net income during 1957 as compared to 1956.

It's estimated that a record high amount of dairy products will be sold in 1957. If the trend toward fewer dairy farms continues, this record income will be divided among fewer families.

A bulk tank is one of the items that many dairymen will be putting in if they intend to stay in the dairy business.

University Publishes Book on Measuring Thickness of Backfat

A new folder just published by the Missouri Agricultural Extension Service illustrates how to probe the backfat on hogs. Probing is an actual measurement of the backfat thickness. The measuring is easy and causes no injury and very little discomfort to the animal.

Probing can be a big help in selection of breeding stock that will produce meat-type hogs. Selections should be based on backfat measurements along with litter size, weight of age, conformation, length, underlines, and feet and legs.

The probing job should be done when the hogs weigh between 175 and 225 pounds and are on a standard fattening ration of grain and supplement.

Copies of this illustrated folder can be obtained at your county extension office or by writing to the Missouri Agricultural Extension Service, Columbia.

4th Annual Turkey Day Will Be Held At MU on Jan. 29

Turkey growers and hatcherymen are reminded of the Fourth Annual Turkey Day program to be held at the University of Missouri in Columbia on January 29.

Two feature speakers at this year's program will be Dr. J. O. Alberts, University of Illinois, and Professor Loyal Payne, Kansas State College. Alberts will discuss control of turkey diseases and Payne will cover the field of raising turkeys and managing turkey breeding stock.

Turkey Day plans also include a reorganization of the Missouri Turkey Federation to include growers as well as breeders.

Produced Corn Crops 2 1/2 Times Mo. Average

$77.30 Extra Profit Per Acre Over Fertilizer Cost.

In 1956, 257 Missouri farmers competed in MFA's Corn Growing Contest. 94 applied MFA Anhydrous Ammonia (82% Nitrogen) as preplant. These 94 farmers produced an average yield of 120.10 bushels of corn per acre. This compares to a 1956 state average of 47 bushels, with a profit of $77.30 more per acre than the state average. The 94 farmers produced 11 bushels per acre more than those who used other forms of Nitrogen, or $14.30 more income per acre over fertilizer cost. This demonstration shows the possibilities for YOU if you use MFA Anhydrous Ammonia.

If you own your rig, it should pay for itself quickly and then return a heavy profit for years. We will supply you America's finest rig for a moderate down payment, with two years to pay. See your exchange manager now.

THAT WAY I CAN FORCE THE GIFT SHOP NEXT DOOR OUT OF BUSINESS, THEN I HAVE THE TWO LOCATIONS I NEED. NOW HOW MUCH MONEY DO YOU HAVE?

Hal Boyle's Column—

49-Year-Old Millionaire
Is Calm and Easy-Going

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—“The reason many uneducated men make successes in business,” said Murray Cohen, who never finished grammar school, “is that subconsciously they seek security in money.”

At 49 Cohen, who is as calm and restful as a bottle of benzadrine pills, really is a millionaire who probably doesn't idolize money. How can you idolize something you are making so fast you don't have time to count it?

There are a number of unusual things about Murray, a blue-eyed, sandy-haired philanthropist and businessman who was born poor on the Lower East Side and still wears the air of surety of one who broke his knuckles young, but still won. For example:

He went to work selling paper and twine at 14, and four years later was earning $40,000 a year selling laundry machinery.

He lives in a suite in the Waldorf Towers, and is the only tenant there who does his own laundry.

He is also a bachelor who washes 30 million diapers a year.

He is, as a matter of fact, president and board chairman of Consolidated Laundries, the world's largest firm in the field, and kingpin in the nation's 400-million-dollar a year linen supply and laundry industry.

In 1943 when he moved in and took over control of the company he was hailed as the youngest top executive of any firm on the New York Stock Exchange.

“It was losing money, and going downhill,” he said. “Its annual business was about six million dollars and it hadn't paid a dividend in some 10 years. This year we'll do 22-million-dollars. How did he do it? This is Cohen's explanation:

“I did it by molding the men I found there when I took over the firm. I didn't bring in men from the outside.

“We had about 2,000 employees then, and we have about 4,000 now, plus 800 trucks. All the managers of the 23 plants we have today were route delivery men or route supervisors when I came.

“I told them at the start their jobs were secure as long as I was there, but it was up to them to provide the kind of security that would permeate through to their families.

“I put in insurance, pensions and stock purchase plans. The measure of my own success is how many men I can help make successful. But I've been a salesman all my life. I believe in ringing doorbells, and that if you pound pavements and ask for business, you'll get business.

“So when they started to tell me what they'd been doing, or showed me a sheet of figures, I told them, ‘I don't care what you did—that's up to you—and the only figure I'm interested in is the final one at the bottom of the page.’”

Cohen, who doesn't mind admitting he enjoys playing hard, also says he has kept the first promise he made to the men in his firm:

“I will work harder than any of you.”

The results show somebody or something worked: Cohen now has 250,000 customers, a customer being either the mother of a newborn baby, a hotel like the Waldorf, or a whole chain of restaurants such as Longchamps, one barber shop or a series of beauty parlors.

“The rental of towels, napkins, tablecloths, and service uniforms is the big thing today,” he said. “Dry cleaning and the handling of home laundry are minor compared to it.

“But diaper rentals interest me. Don't ask me why I never got married. It's a long story. I met a lot of girls I liked for two weeks, but then, somehow . . . well . . .”

“Babies interest me. We've found the average baby uses 100 to 120 diapers a week. The record was 320 a week. He was a boy. At first we thought the family must have had triplets.

“There are a lot of angles to this business . . . we own 10-million-dollars worth of linens, as we call cotton goods . . . we've got a new diaper now shaped like an hourglass instead of square . . . more efficient . . .”

“You know how to deal with employees? First, make them have a real sense of belonging to your organization to give them emotional security. Then over-pay them—that gives them financial security. Nothing makes a man feel more secure than being over-paid.”

Then Cohen, who is reported worth 15-million-dollars, give or take 5-million, remarked with the brooding air of a man who would like to have everything in life, and is still unreconciled because he can't:

“You know, I never went to college. That can give you an inferiority feeling.”
